The Duke, at the same time, ordered two regiments to move up from the reserve, so that Pulteney s regiment stood on the right of the Royal, which had the right of the first line before, and Battereau s regiment stood on the right of Howard s regiment in the second line. His Royal Highness, after making these changes in the disposition of his army, placed himself between the first and second line, in the front of Howard s regiment. While these changes were making, Colonel Belford, observing the body of horse with Charles, ordered two pieces of cannon to be pointed at them; several discharges were made; and some balls broke ground among the horses legs. Charles had his face bespattered with dirt; and one of his servants,...
