RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 104 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : U. S. Dept. of State, 2000 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)45084551 Subject: Race discrimination -- Law and legislation -- United States. Excerpt: . . . Attorney General under Executive Order No. 12250 to ensure consistent and effective enforcement of laws prohibiting, among other things, discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, or sex in programs and activities receiving federal financial assistance, as well as on the basis of disability in programs receiving federal financial assistance and conducted by federal agencies. The Division also enforces laws prohibiting patterns or practices of police misconduct (42 U. S. C. sec. 14141), protecting the constitutional and federal statutory rights of persons confined to certain institutions owned or operated by state or local governments, such as prisons, jails, nursing homes, and mental health facilities (the Civil Rights of Institutionalized Persons Act (CRIPA)), and the Equal Credit Opportunity Act and the Fair Housing Act (the Department of Justice shares responsibility for administration of the latter statute with the Department of Housing and Urban Development). Under these various statutes, the Division may bring civil actions to enjoin acts or patterns of conduct that violate constitutional rights. In its civil cases, the Justice Departments responsibilities permit it to go to federal court to seek broad remedial orders that may include compensatory damages, civil penalties, injunctive relief and, in some cases, punitive damages. The Division also has authority to prosecute criminally those who use force or threat of force to violate a persons rights to non-discrimination (so called hate crimes) and state and local law enforcement officers who engage in the use of excessive force (18 U....
